

War Will Probably Decide Fate of British Empire

Struggle Could Bring Colonies Close to England

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

The world-shaking crisis developing over the Indian Nationalist demand of absolute freedom from Britain gives added point to the following letter which I have received from Memphis, Tenn., regarding the stability of the British empire:

"Why you and other military experts continue to write as though England can win the war is beyond my understanding. England's true objective is to save the British Empire as a whole. Unless England is successful in this purpose she cannot win the war.

"The crushing defeat of the British in the Far East, climaxed by the fall of Singapore, will doubtless prove to be one of the most decisive campaigns in military history. Unquestionably it marks the beginning of the end of the British Empire. England is therefore fighting a losing war, even if the armed forces of the Axis nations are ultimately defeated on the battlefields of the eastern hemisphere."

Well, is the British Empire breaking up? We don't need to beat about the mulberry bush since there's no dark secret involved. Before we can answer, however, we must define "empire." Webster's New International Dictionary says it is "characterized by the supremacy of a stronger over the weaker members of a confederacy, or over its confederates, conquests and colonies."

That's clear enough, and viewing the query from this standpoint the answer very definitely is "yes." As a matter of fact we're a bit late in announcing such a conclusion, for the empire has been "breaking up" with the collaboration of Britain, for a couple of generations or more.

Let's take a concrete case for illustration: the British Imperial Conference of 1926 in London, defined the relations of Great Britain and the Dominions (Canada, the Commonwealth of Australia, New Zealand and the Union of South Africa) in this manner:

"They are autonomous communities within the British Empire, equal in status, in no way subordinate one to another in any respect of their domestic or internal affairs, though united by a common allegiance to the crown, and freely associated as members of the British Commonwealth of Nations."

That declaration was formalized in the passage of the Statute of Westminster in 1931 by parliament. It means that the mother country agreed that these four great dominions were absolutely free and

TOY PLANT CONVERTED

London —(AP)— When 82-year-old Sir Edward Ingfield's son was recalled to active service in the Navy, he said to his father, "please look after my toy locomotive factory."

Sir Edward, a retired rear admiral, concluded this was no time to continue making toy engines. He converted the little workshop into a war factory.

With an experienced engineer as manager, a 20-year-old foreman, and second-hand machinery, the non-profit factory trains boys and girls of 16 and 17 to manufacture brass parts for airplane radio equipment.

"We are manufacturing 50,000 parts a week and have to make our own cutting tools," Sir Edward said. "I have done this as my war effort."

that they were equal in all respects with her. They are their own bosses, and there's nothing whatever to prevent them from walking out of the British Commonwealth of Nations any time they see fit. If you want to pick a fight with a Canadian or Australian or New Zealander or South African just intimate that his country isn't a sovereign state.

So in the Statute of Westminster we see Britain, turning loose the major component parts of her empire with the exception of India. We don't need to go into the complications of the white-hot Indian problem here.

Besides these wholly independent states, there are, of course, many other units. The population of the empire is estimated at more than 500,000,000 and its area at approximately 14,000,000 square miles. Some of the colonies have legislatures and are reaching for self-government; others which are inhabited by primitive peoples are administered by the crown.

The bond which holds together the already wholly independent states of the British "empire" is the bond of blood, and the community of interests and ideals. We have seen it bring all the sovereign states to the support of the mother country in this new World War. What the future will bring forth we cannot foresee, but it may just as easily be a strengthening as a weakening of the bond.

Golf Stars Tee Off in Canadian Open

Toronto, Aug. 6 —(AP)— The Canadian Open golf tournament started today with the first-round gallery debating a question as old as the world itself—whether a Canadian could beat the top-notch imported talent to the $1,000 first prize and the Seagram Gold Cup.

Opposing such professional stars from the United States as Ben Hogan, Clayton Heafner, Craig Wood and Paul Runyan was a battery of capable pros and Phil Farley in the amateur section.

The field of 113 will play 18 holes today and 18 tomorrow but only those with the best 60 scores and ties will remain in the 36-hole windup Saturday.

By WADE WERNER

Washington, Aug. 6 —(AP)— The state department watched closely today the ominous turn of events in India, where a campaign of mass civil disobedience threatens unless nationalist demands for immediate independence are granted.

Officials avoided comment, either on the All-India congress working committee's resolution pledging India's wholehearted cooperation with the United Nations if independence is granted, or on the British government's charge that most members of the committee as well as Mohandas K. Gandhi himself were appeasers of Japan.

During the months in which the Indian crisis grew, Secretary of State Hull consistently avoided comment.

In his recent radio address on the war and postwar problems, however, Mr. Hull uttered the warning:

"There is no chance for liberty for any people anywhere save through the victory of the free peoples. Never did a plainer duty to fight against its foes devolve upon all peoples who prize liberty and all who aspire to it."

In a further passage, widely interpreted as a warning to Indian extremists—although he did not mention India—Hull stressed that peoples striving for freedom is reserved for those who, "by their Chicago, Aug. 6 —(AP)— Rallying two cents from early lows, the wheat market today staged a strong recovery. Most traders attributed it to a technical reaction as a result of drying up of selling orders followed by purchasing to cover previous short sales.

Buying came mostly from professional traders. Some mill and flour trade was reported, however, with dealers noting that open market prices are far below government loan rates, which is tending to hold new wheat marketings to comparatively small proportions. Indications that the government may attempt to reduce the national acreage next season also attracted attention.

policies affecting Arkansas."

"Certainly, regardless of previous legislative experience, any man who hopes to represent Arkansas in the United States Senate today must be a man who is friendly to our president."

"As for Mrs. Caraway's remarks in regard to previous legislative experience, I can only remind her and the voters of Arkansas that she went to Washington without previous legislative experience and at a time of great national crisis."

McClellan expressed his gratitude for Mrs. Caraway's endorsement. He said it was unsolicited.

As the senatorial campaign pushed all other statewide races to the far background, a reported error in the transcript of the official canvass of the preferential primary indicated that Hull's lead in the four-man race had been reduced to 397 votes over McClellan. L. R. Deering, Dewitt, secretary of Arkansas county's Democratic committee, said the votes polled in that county had been inadvertently assigned to the wrong candidates in the report to the state committee. The revised Arkansas county vote would change the statewide totals to read: Hull 54,159, McClellan 53,702, Congressman Clyde T. Ellis, 34,255 and Terry 26,991.

ca over according to social theories that you and I abhor.

"The pattern of New Deal thinking is well brought out in the administration's encouragement of the labor groups to seize more and more power, without at the same time imposing proper restrictions on them."

Discussing administration leaders, O'Neal praised Secretary of Agriculture Wickard as a friend of the farmer, adding "we have not been severely critical (of him) for the reason we understand very well the pressure he is under and we feel that we must make allowances for this."

Of Price Administrator Leon Henderson, O'Neal said "he has not been consistent" and "for a time he did not follow the letter of the law." He said the War Manpower Commission, headed by Paul V. McNutt, had the welfare of agriculture "in the hollow of its hand," in that he could "reduce the manpower on farms to a point that it would be simply impossible for farmers to keep their production up to what is expected of them."

Donald Nelson, head of the War Production Board, was credited with doing "fairly well by farmers this year in his allocation of materials for farm machinery and repair parts." O'Neal also said he felt Director of Defense Transportation Joseph B. Eastman "will be fair to agriculture in formulating transportation policies."

He repeatedly warned his listeners against "this trend toward centralizing power in Washington."

"In every action agency that has been created," he said, we have seen the development of bureaucratic tendencies. We have a battle on our hands, a battle against bureaucracy."

"The issue boils down to this: Are farm people going to have any say about the making of national policies in the future, or are the policies to be dictated from Washington?"

he would make no move to intervene in the death sentence meted out to Stephan. Michigan law does not provide for capital punishment. "If Stephan has got to die, Michigan soil is no different than any other," Van Wagoner said today.

The 49-year-old Detroit restaurateur who boasted that his love for the fatherland was stronger than that for his adopted country was found guilty July 2 by a federal court jury of aiding a Nazi air force prisoner of war who fled from a Canadian concentration camp.

Stephan was taken into custody April 21 by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents after 21-year-old Oberleutnant Krug passed through Detroit in an attempt to reach Mexico and thence Germany after his escape.

He was first charged with unlawfully harboring an alien, a misdemeanor, but at the direction of Attorney General Francis Biddle, he subsequently was indicted for treason which accused him of 15 overt acts which gave "aid and comfort" to an enemy in time of war.

Krug, who was recaptured in San Antonio, Tex., by FBI agents, was the government's most important witness.

the World War I army, including front line fighters, Service of Supply workers, and those who never got further than preliminary training camps in the United States.

As many will be permanently incapacitated by injuries as the total of American soldiers wounded during the first World War.

Individually, there is nothing sensational about most accidents. The victim suffers. So do his wife, his children and his other relatives. His friends are sorry. Perhaps the community helps care for his dependents. It's too bad, we say, but he should have been more careful.

In the aggregate, the time has passed when we can take this dispassionate approach to accidents. The National Safety Council, with the expressed approval and support of President Roosevelt and Donald Nelson, is trying to reduce the accident trend as a war measure.

Last year four million workers were injured, three-fifths away from their jobs. Fifty thousand of them died. Another 170,000 were permanently disabled. The rest were kept from work for greater or lesser periods.

This year, with employment up the first five months' experience, forecasts 4,400,000 injuries, 52,000 deaths, 140,000 permanent injuries. From the war production standpoint this is mighty serious. It means, the National Safety Council computes, that we shall lose five hundred million man-days of labor, at a time when we are pressed to find enough workers to care for our military needs.

Half a billion man-days is equivalent approximately to two million men working fifty 40-hour weeks. Those two million men are enough to provide the labor for building 71 battleships, or 625 destroyers, or 24,000 flying fortresses, or 120,000 fighter planes, or 312,500 light tanks.

In time of war we can't evaluate lost labor in terms of man-days, or even in humanitarian terms. We have to think in terms of armament and munitions—the tools with which civilization, as we have come to know it, is to be saved from the Huns.

It is up to every worker, and every worker's family, and every employer—and then to the public as a whole—to fight the mounting curve of accidents, both within the factory and outside.

TO THE VOTERS OF NEVADA COUNTY:

As you know, I am a candidate for Circuit Clerk and Recorder of Nevada County, and in this, the closing hours of the campaign, I wish to thank you for the many acts of kindness and friendship which you have shown me in the past.

For more than three years, I have been County Treasurer of your County. I have tried in my humble way to do a good job of this office. My record is before you and I hope that it has met with your approval. As your servant, I have tried at all times, being the chief bookkeeper and Accountant for the various funds of the county, to keep the county's records in first-class condition. This I have done. I have been audited repeatedly by the State Auditors, and, never, at any time, has this office been found one penny out of balance.

After much solicitation, I am submitting myself to you as a candidate for Circuit Clerk and Recorder. Being a young man, and having had the experience and training which I have had, I feel that I can discharge this duty faithfully.

With the position of Circuit Clerk goes a tremendous responsibility. In this office is housed the records of all your real estate, land deeds, mortgages, leases, royalty deeds, court records, various papers pertaining to the ex-service men of the County and many other responsibilities too numerous to mention.

I think that this office should be held by one who stands above reproach; whose honesty, character and virtue are beyond question. Certainly, in this time of strain, public officials, as never before, should be outstanding men and women.

Having lived in this County all of my life, having served you publicly for more than three years as your County Treasurer and having taught your children in the various school districts of this county and associated with you in many other ways, I feel that I am no stranger among you and that my record is well written in your midst.

I am very sorry that I did not get to visit with each of you personally at your homes, but I couldn't afford to neglect the duties of my office in order to do this, but I assure you that if I have missed you, it hasn't been intentional, and when you go to vote for a Circuit Clerk and Recorder on August 11th, I consider it your profound duty to vote for the one whom you consider best qualified and fitted in every respect for this position, and I shall ever be grateful to you for your favorable consideration.

CHRISTIE'S LAST FLIGHT

CHAPTER XII

"It was in our World War that I got that letter from a French girl—one of those Mademoiselles from Armentieres that the song is written about, I guess," Bart's mother was saying. "Anyway, Christie, she wrote that she was in love with my husband; and what, in so many words, was I going to do about it?"

"What did you do?" Christie asked. She had come to Bart's mother after a visit to the doctor. "Why, I wrote back that I could understand how she felt because I was in love with him, too. But I didn't tell her she could have him, as she probably wanted me to do."

"One day, a long time after the war, my husband said he wanted to get something off his chest. There had been a romance—a very mild romance it was. He had danced with this French girl, taken her out to dinner a few times, kissed her under a moon—which is just as romantic in France as it is anywhere else in the world. There might have been a different ending, if I had been hot-headed and suspicious, my dear."

"But you don't understand, Mother Sanderson. Bart is in love with Sandra."

"Then why was he so miserable and upset about you last Friday night? Walking up and down his room like a caged animal; not eating his dinner, staring into space. Why, he acted like a crazy man, Christie."

"Last Friday!" Christie cried. "Was Bart here last Friday?"

Mrs. Sanderson nodded. "He came to see you; that girl came along for the ride into town. Then, he went by the apartment and you were out. Somebody told him you were in a little park nearby."

When he came back here, he was in an awful state. He said he would spend the night here. I asked him if he didn't find you in the park, and he said, 'Yes, I found her.' The way he looked, hadn't you, Christie?"

"Oh, Mother Sanderson, you're an angel," Christie breathed. "If I had only come before!"

Christie grabbed Bart's diminutive mother, spun her about dizzily, and then put her down in a big, cushioned chair. "I've got to rush off to undo a lot of damage I've done," she said. "You can count on it—I'm not going to hand Bart over to some Mademoiselle from Armentieres."

SHE drove straight to the airport. Russ came to meet her with his familiar quizzical smile that was half a scowl. "What's up, Christie? Decided to finish those flying lessons?"

Christie shook her head. "Just one more lesson. I want to take my solo cross-country flight."

"All right. You can have your old plane. By the way, you haven't forgotten that promise you made Bart about flying?"

"No, but he won't mind, this time."

She watched the plane being warmed up; climbed in and took the controls with a sure, firm grasp.

This was different from that first solo. How frightened she had felt when she found herself up in the air alone. And different, too, from that trip to Lakeville with Stephen, racing against time.

But today she felt secure and confident. The world which had crashed around her a few days before was so absolutely right again that nothing could go wrong.

Fifteen minutes later, Christie was circling over the air port. She spoke into the microphone: "Christie Sanderson speaking. . . wife of Lieutenant Sanderson. Give me landing directions."

In a moment, stern and curt, came the reply: "You're not to land, Mrs. Sanderson."

Christie's excited voice again: "I've got to land. It's something of utmost importance to Lieutenant Sanderson. I've got to come in."

"These are orders. You're to go back where you came from."

CHRISTIE wheeled her plane, fighting back the tears. Now that she thought about it, it seemed there was a rule about civil planes landing at army fields—something about shooting first and asking questions afterward. Heavens, of course you must have special permission. Just because Bart was assistant to the commandant of cadets, she had acted exactly like she owned the place.

Back at the airport, she brought the plane down, taxiing across the field.

Sober-eyed, she stepped out on the ground, only to be lifted up again—higher than any ship could carry her. Straight into heaven!

"The first thing you must learn, young woman, is discipline," came Bart's voice. "No army man's wife runs after him. He runs after her."

"Yes, Lieutenant," Christie whispered, her arms tight around Bart, her sunny head pressed close to him.

"Russ phoned the field to have me meet you. They told him I had left for town, and so they staged that little reception—an extra rough one—to get you back here quick. Lucky I was at our apartment when Russ called and I broke all speed limits to beat your plane."

Bart kissed her long and hard. "I had come home to write the truth out of you," he said after a moment, "to find out why I had seen you in another man's arms."

Christie laughed softly. "We were racing, and there was a little ditch. When I stumbled, Stephen caught me. I suppose you would have preferred having me pitch straight down on my nose."

"Much preferred," Bart's voice was grim. "That little ditch was big enough to plunge me straight into hell. Darling, all I had to do to put myself back on the torture rack was to think of it again. Then, today, something snapped. Somehow, I knew you weren't to blame, and that your letter didn't make sense. So I came home."

"When I found out you'd come to town with Sandra and didn't come near me—"

"So that was why you wrote that letter."

"It made sense to me, then."

"Sandra was coming back for good," Bart explained. "Seems she got fed up entertaining the boys and gave up her job. She asked if she could drive back with me."

"Bart, we were a pair of idiots. They stood, arms close about each other. Nearby was the plane. To Christie it seemed symbolic of something; its strong silver wings outspread. Wings like these, and the men who flew them, would keep her country free."

Bart's thoughts must have been traveling along with hers, for he said, slowly: "This war isn't a private affair of men. There's probably going to be a real place for women flyers before it's over. Civil air patrol, transporting planes. Just a moment ago, I watched you come down from the sky, Christie. I could feel how sure and calm you were. I was proud of you. That's my wife, and she's a born flyer," I said.

Darling, I'm going to release you from that promise. It wasn't fair of me. It's up to you."

Christie's arms tightened around him. "I guess you're going to do all the flying for our family, Bart."

She was smiling. After a moment, she said: "I'm very well satisfied with ground work. Besides, there's a lot of knitting I'm going to have to do. Not only for the soldiers and sailors, but for one of Uncle Sam's future young Americans! It's likely to keep me very, very busy."

13 Dead, Many Hurt in Wreck

Crystal Springs, Miss., Aug. 6.—(AP)—A collision between a bus carrying 52 persons and a fast passenger train brought death to 13 persons and injured more than 30 in the heart of this southern Mississippi City yesterday.

Efforts were continuing today to identify the bodies of two women taken to Jackson, Miss., funeral parlors after the crash.

Witnesses said the impact was so terrific that the engine in the rear part of the bus was torn out, the top ripped off and dead and injured strewn along the track. The train was not derailed and its passengers suffered no serious hurts.

Most of the dead and injured were aboard the bus which witnesses said "appeared to be lifted up in the air, and looked for an instant as if it were riding the top of the locomotive."

H. T. Morton of Crystal Springs, a bus passenger, said the driver stopped for a northbound freight train to clear the crossing.

"We drove onto the track right behind the freight and the southbound passenger train hit us," he said.

Mrs. W. L. Dodds of Osyka, Miss., was killed when the heavy bus hurtled through the air and overturned on the sidewalk where she was standing trying to warn the driver of his danger.

Mayors Seek Fuel Oil Head

Boston, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Fifty mayors assembled from 17 Atlantic coast states yesterday adopted resolutions seeking the appointment of a single fuel oil head to relieve the east coast shortage and simultaneously appealed to non-rationed Americans to share their oil voluntarily with citizens of the eastern seaboard.

Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York announced receipt of a telegram from Petroleum Coordinator Harold Ickes saying that Saturday's order for 5,000 railroad tank cars for the eastern states had already been executed and that the cars were being delivered.

Earlier, LaGuardia said, it would be necessary to do more than appeal to the non-rationed areas.

"I am convinced it will be necessary to extend fuel oil rationing to the entire country, and eventually it will be done," LaGuardia told a conference of mayors gathered from Miami, Fla., to Portland, Me.

Asserting that nationally there is no shortage of oil, he told the session in Boston City Hall that for 60 days, I think, there will be a rather good flow of oil from the midwest to the east.

But that will exhaust the midwest reserve and necessitate a return to the Texas and Oklahoma supplies.

"I believe in direct action, which would save oil and result in a saving of rubber, rather than the other way around," he added.

U-Boat Victims Land Safely

An East Coast Port, Aug. 6.—(AP) Still weak from 32 days of sailing and hunger and thirst in a lifeboat, 47 men have arrived here with one of the stirring stories of heroism occasioned by the war at sea.

They were the crew and gun crew of a United States merchant ship torpedoed far out in the Atlantic on June 27. They struck out for land with one sail-powered lifeboat towing four rafts, but as the seas beat at them and thirst and hunger sapped their strength, they abandoned one raft after another until all were in the boat.

They had no navigation instruments. Capt. John Lapoint of Baltimore steered by the sun and stars. Six men were missing and believed dead when they started their lonely voyage. Two more died on the way.

For the last 15 days they had no food or water. They caught fish with a net from odds and ends on the lifeboat, and ate them raw. One of the men who

Dutch to Fight Queen Asserts

Washington, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Wilhelmina of the Netherlands, the first queen in her own right to visit the United States, told Congress today that "no surrender" remains the motto of her people, suffering though they are under the alien rule of an invader in Asia and in Europe.

The grandmotherly monarch, addressing a joint session of the House and Senate, said: "Imagine what it means for a liberty-loving country to be in bondage, for a proud country to be subject to harsh alien rule."

"What would be the American answer if an invader tried to cover his wholesale systematic pillage with the firing squad, the concentration camp and the abomination of the hostage practice?"

The 61-year-old queen, who issued a proclamation of "hanging fire" test and sent her armies into battle when the German forces invaded Holland in May, 1940, continued:

"I doubt not that your answer would be: resistance, resistance until the end, resistance in every conceivable shape or form."

"This is exactly the answer my people have given, and are giving every day. Inside occupied territory and outside, the fight goes on." The Netherlands government forced to flee has set up headquarters in London.

The queen came from London in mid-June by bomber, her first trans-Atlantic crossing. She landed in Ottawa. With her daughter, Crown Prince Juliana, and two granddaughters, she has been staying at Lee, Mass. She arrived died, a seaman named Miller, was bitten on the arm by a shark as he cleaned a raw fish he was about to eat.

Several airplanes passed within view during one four-day period, but sped on without seeing them. And when they finally sighted land, it proved to be a Caribbean island inhabited only by wild jackasses.

"We followed the jackasses to a water hole," said Allen Holmes Jackson, third mate, of New York City. "It was a stinking hole of brackish water, but it saved our lives. After drinking, we tried to catch one of the animals with the thought of eating jackass steaks, but we were too weak. We couldn't overtake it."

Some of the men needed hospital treatment so after two days they boarded their little lifeboat and sailed again in search of land. Another uninhabited island was visited. Pressing on, they sighted land a third time, with lights that indicated a village. But it was too late for the 5-year-old Negro cook, a man named Parson. He died as they lay outside a reef awaiting daylight for a landing.

Candidate for UNITED STATES SENATOR

Will Return to Hempstead County for His Final Campaign Speech in South Arkansas

Hope City Hall

8 o'Clock Friday Night—August 7

McClellan Won a Clear Majority in Every Southwest
Arkansas County, Except Hempstead, in the First Primary—Let's Make It Unanimous on August 11!

HOME FOLKS

What They Think of the
Two Candidates for United States
Senator as Indicated by the July 28th Primary!

Mr. McClellan was born and reared in Grant County, and he practiced law for fifteen years at Malvern, County Seat of Hot Spring County. He was Prosecuting Attorney for that District (Seventh Circuit). The District is composed of the Counties of Grant, Hot Spring and Saline.

John McClellan's Congressional District

Mr. McClellan represented the Sixth Congressional District, composed of the Counties of:

GRANT
DALLAS

DESHA

GARLAND
(Hot Springs)
(County Seat)

Mr. McClellan carried every county in his old Judicial District and also every county in his old Congressional District with the exception of the Counties of Lonoke and Garland. His opponent's Campaign Manager is County Judge of Lonoke County and probably his popularity had something to do with the loss of it. However, the loss was by a very small majority. We are unable to understand why he failed to carry Garland County. The vote in it, as you will notice from the tabulation below, was overwhelmingly against Mr. McClellan. Could it be that the interest of the City of Hot Springs is different from that of the State? Does this vote in Hot Springs indicate that Mr. McClellan does not suit their purposes? Is not this vote a compliment?

The tabulation of the vote in the first primary in Mr.
McClellan's Judicial and Congressional District is as follows:

Counties		McClellan	Holt
CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT	Hot Spring	2,211	438
	Saline	1,023	273
	Grant	1,354	234
	Dallas	907	498
	Desha	825	189
	Cleveland	609	174
	Lincoln	576	175
	Drew	575	113
	Jefferson	1,121	330
	Arkansas	947	789
	Lonoke	1,238	1,281
	Garland (Hot Springs)	374	3,834

The Home Folks' Opinion of Attorney General Holt

Attorney General Holt was born and reared in Boone County, the City of Harrison being the County Seat. It is in the Fourteenth Judicial Circuit. It consists of the Counties of Newton, Boone, Van Buren, Cleburne, Searcy and Marion. Attorney General Holt was Prosecuting Attorney for the District for six years. He was also its Circuit Judge. Observe the vote in the recent primary.

The senatorial vote in the Fourteenth Circuit is as follows:

Counties	McClellan	Holt	Ellis
Newton	295	79	41
Boone	128	1,170	1,528
Van Buren	202	418	784
Cleburne	478	293	222
Searcy	46	148	386
Marion	63	374	943

The above figures show that the Attorney General did not carry a single county in his old Judicial District. That he even lost his own county. This tabulation shows what the homefolks think of him. Is that any guide to us? Does it shed any light on our duties in the coming primary? Is it worthwhile giving this consideration in determining how we shall vote on August 11th? Is not this tabulation forceful as the testimony of a silent witness? If the interest of Hot Springs is different to that of the balance of the people, shall we be indifferent enough to let it say who our Senator shall be?

We urge the citizens to give the above full consideration in determining how they vote in the August 11 Primary. We believe that Mr. McClellan is eminently equipped from the standpoint of experience, integrity and ability to be a credit to the State as its U. S. Senator. We hope Hempstead County will give Mr. McClellan the big majority to which he is entitled.

Sports Roundup

New York, Aug. 6 — Short ration rushin' — so many high school coaches have left Oklahoma for the armed services that the state high school athletic association has put out a manual, intended for women, on how to coach. One big prep league there has lost all its basketball coaches in two months. And in Texas they made special arrangements at the annual football clinic for school superintendents looking for coaches instead of trying to find places for jobless coaches.

Today's Guest Star
Howard Preston, Cleveland News: "It must be very comforting to the St. Louis Cardinals to have historians recall that the Dodgers blew a late season 17-game lead and the pennant to the Cards back in 1930. And it must also be very comforting to the Dodger management to recall that those 1930 players no longer are playing with Brooklyn."

Recovered Fumbles
The Southwest Conference hasn't made a move to call an August meeting to discuss playing frosh on varsity teams, so it looks as if there's plenty of big league material on hand. Dodger Rookie Limits Giants to Two Safeties

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Pitching always is the main spring of baseball, but yesterday it was almost the whole works in the major leagues.

In the greatest one-day concentration of pitching prowess this season, five of the seven games played ended in shutouts and not a single home run was produced in the entire card. In fact, there was only one triple.

Rookie Max Macon, pitching his first complete game since joining the Brooklyn Dodgers several weeks ago, muffled the New York Giants to two hits in winning 4-0 and for the first five frames had a no-hitter.

John Beazley of the St. Louis Cardinals and Cecil (Tox) Hughson of the Boston Red Sox each hurled three-hitters, the former trimming the Cincinnati Reds, 5-0, and the latter stopping the Philadelphia Athletics, 7-0.

But Hal Newhouser pitched five-hit ball and lost in the rarest game of all as Don Kolloway stole home to give the Chicago White Sox a 1-0 decision over the Detroit Tigers.

This was the second start for Lefty Thorton Lee, the outstanding hurler of the American league a year ago, and it apparently proved that the mysterious arm ailment which kept him out of action for more than half the season has vanished.

It was the fifth straight triumph for the White Sox.
The only other American league game was the one contest that developed into a batting melee, Cleveland curbing the St. Louis Browns 8-5 in a night tilt with a six-run rally in the fourth inning after being held to one hit for three stanzas by Denny Galehouse. The Browns outdid the Indians 12-11, but couldn't bunch their blows.

In the National league the Dodgers and Giants finally turned in a complete two-night game at Ebbets field in Brooklyn after having been halted twice by the dimout dead-line while playing across town in the Polo grounds. With Macon pitching swiftly as well as expertly, the contest was finished in one hour and 51 minutes.

All the other National league activity also was at night. In one of the best games Truett (Rip) Sewell blanked the Chicago Cubs, 3-0. The Pirates put an end to a scoreless pitching duel between Sewell and Les Fleming by getting all their four singles after two were out.

The Cardinals collected four of their five runs in the first three innings off Bucky Walters and the Reds never had a chance against Beazley, who struck out eight.

Although he didn't get a shutout, Tommy Hughes pitched five-hit ball at Philadelphia to lead the Phils to their second straight victory over the Boston Braves, 5-2, with the help of Danny Litwhiler, who hit a triple and double good for three runs.

Johnny Beasley, Cardinals — Shut out Reds on three hits.
Rip Sewell, Pirates — Kept six hits scattered to whitewash Cubs.

Tommy Hughes, Phils — Held Braves to five hits for his eighth victory of the season.

Fighting Rocks Increase Lead to 5½ Games

By The Associated Press
While Little Rock's great stretch drive has carried them five and one half games in front of the pack in the Southern Association pennant race, four other teams have been left in a mad scramble for the other first division berths.

Today's averages find Nashville in second place a game and a half ahead of Memphis and New Orleans who are tied for third with a percentage of .518. The Atlanta Crackers are just one point behind the Chiefs and Pels at .517.

The Travelers increased their league lead a half game by taking both ends of a double header from Chattanooga 1-0 and 4-1, while Nashville stayed up there with a 3-2 win over New Orleans. Memphis and Atlanta marked time when their game was postponed and Birmingham beat the lowly Knoxville Smokies 3-1.

Pitchers ruled the roost in both Lookout-Traveler games. The seven-inning opener saw both teams get a total of three singles while they divided 11 singles in the full length nightcap. In the first tilt Chattanooga's Phil McCullough lost a tough one when he held the league-leaders to a single hit but lost the game. Wildness in the fifth frame contributed to his defeat.

Joe Callahan held the Lookouts to a brace of safeties in winning. McCullough walked in the only Traveler run in the fifth and was banished by Umpire Blackard when he objected too strenuously on the fourth ball.

John Intlekofer pitched four-hit ball to beat the Lookouts in the nightcap, while Hardin Cathey allowed seven. The Travelers got off to a two-run lead in the first inning and never were headed.

Games today and probable pitchers:
Knoxville (Warchol) at Birmingham (Malloy).

Atlanta (Loebbaum and Cortes) at Memphis (Woods and West) (2).

Chattanooga (Miller) at Little Rock (Papish).

Only game scheduled.

All-Americans Join the Army

By LOU BLACK

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 6 — (T)—Tarry Friends, for a moment and give ear to the plight of First Lieutenant Harold R. Freckleton, who once upon a time would have given his right arm for an all-American football player and who now has so many at his disposal that he's having difficulty deciding on which to concentrate.

Thirty-one year old, sandy-haired, soft spoken Freckleton isn't coach of the Eastern All-Army football squad assembling here for practice. The coach is Col. Bob Neyland. Freck is just the press agent or, to give him his official and more dignified title, the public relations officer of the squad.

The job is no new one for Freck who only a few years ago was laboring in the not too productive football vineyard of the University of Connecticut, looking vainly for top-names and lads with his office appeal to lure 'em in.

Freck worked his way through school as a student newspaperman and never played the game himself but when the call came to him at Washington to hustle up to Yale and see that the Army football team got off to a good start it was, in a gridiron sense, like a call to paradise.

For here at Yale where the big-name squad is just getting down to work today under the tutelage of Col. Bob and a batch of top-flight assistants, Freck finds himself literally surrounded by football stars of eminence.

With such names to play with as Corporal Norman Standlee of Stanford and the Chicago Bears; Private Nick Bascia of Villanova; Pvt. Vic Spadacinni of Minnesota and Cleveland; Pvt. Jackie Hunt of Marshall College; Lieutenant Roy Bueck, all American from Texas A. and M.; Lieutenant Dave Allardice of Princeton and Pvt. George Caffego of Tennessee and the Brooklyn Dodgers, to mention only a few, Freck has almost too much of a good thing.

For a fellow, who once would have whooped with joy at the sight of a near all-American at Connecticut, he's hard put to know where to start extolling the wares of current galaxy.

"There are so many of them," he means with almost convincing sincerity, "and they're all so good."

HE'S HANDY BOY
Mason City, Iowa — When you're mentioning baseball handy men don't forget Al DiMarco of the Mason City high school Mohawks. Al is an ace pitcher who averaged nearly two strikeouts an inning during the 12 high school games he worked this year. When he wasn't on the mound he played a sparkling defensive game at shortstop. He hit in the clean-up spot, averaged .300 and led his team in runs batted in. Among his pitching triumphs were six shutouts. DiMarco hurled the Mason City legion team to the state championship last year. Several colleges want this 18-year-old Italian boy, but he is undecided where he will go.

Emery, Kraft Matched Today

Colorado Springs, Colo., Aug. 6 — Two of the brightest lights in the group of stars competing in the Bradmoor invitational golf tournament collided today.

Walter Emery of Tulsa, Okla., and John Kraft of Denver were matched in what promised to be a dogged hole-for-hole battle on the picturesque but though 6,622-yard course, each aware that the winner may continue on to the 1942 Bradmoor championship.

Emery, whose clubs have been performing excellently since he won medalist honors with a par 70, disposed of Carl Evans of Wichita, 5 and 4, in his first round match yesterday.

But School Master Kraft, the defending champion, had to come from behind to defeat Neil Smith of Oklahoma City, 3 and 2. Thus far in the 22nd annual Bradmoor tourney Kraft has been unable to recapture the form that enabled him to win the Trans-Mississippi title early this summer.

Other second round pairings for today:

Charles Daniels, Houston, vs. Jac Hartman, Dover, R. G. Hurd, Stanford University, vs. Al Edwards, Colorado Springs, Carl Poling, Talmage, Neb., vs. Cayan Briggs, Frederick, Okla., Don Bell, Denver vs. Norris Russell, Denton, Tex., Bob Goldwater, Phoenix, Ariz., vs. Boston Smith, Oklahoma City, Bill Korns, Salt Lake City, vs. Larry MacArthur, Greeley, Colo., John Zermatten, Colorado Springs, vs. Leo Jack, Enid, Okla.

Descendants of the original Dutch settlers—now called Afrikaners—account for about 56 per cent of the white population of South Africa, the British about 39 per cent.

Featherweights Battle Tonight

New York, Aug. 6 — (AP)—Newark's Allie Stolz takes on Featherweight Champion Chalky Wright of Los Angeles in Madison Square Garden tonight with the lightweight title as his goal.

Wright's championship, recognized by the New York State Athletic Commission but not by the National Boxing Association, will not be at stake. But a victory for Stolz virtually would assure him a shot at the 135-pound crown, worn by Sammy Angott.

Wright also will be prepping for a title bout tonight since he will defend his 126-pound championship against Charley (Lulu) Costantino Sept. 25.

Unhindered by weight restrictions, Wright probably will come into the ring at 10 p. m. (EWT) to go 10 rounds or less, but he will be giving away about four pounds.

Stolz is rated the favorite at odds of 5 to 9.

RAF Again Hits Rhur Valley

London, Aug. 6 — (AP)—The RAF's big night bomber squadrons, determined on destroying Germany's arsenal in any weather, smashed at the Ruhr valley last night for the second time running, the air ministry announced today.

The weather still was bad and British sources said the night air operations were not on a large scale. The communiqué reported five of the raiders were missing.

Isolated Nazi raids on Britain, which caused few casualties and only minor damage, stretched from evening to the hours before dawn this morning.

Two German fighter-bombers made a roof-top attack with bombs and machine-guns on a west country town early last night, hitting a working class residential area hardest. There also was slight enemy air activity over East Anglia and a predawn attack by two German planes later in the same area.

The air ministry said RAF coastal command planes shot down an enemy seaplane off northwest France yesterday and announced that one British fighter was missing from yesterday's daylight patrol flights.

Both Afrikaans and English are recognized as official languages in South Africa.

Pelley to Seek a New Trial

Indianapolis, Aug. 6 — (AP)—William Dudley Pelley, convicted on 11 counts of criminal sedition and conspiracy and facing a possible maximum sentence of 220 years in prison, today based his hopes for freedom from the conviction here on a new trial.

Should he escape sentence on his conviction here, however, he is under sentence in North Carolina to serve two to three years for violating that state's securities laws.

The sentence was passed and suspended in 1935 after Pelley's conviction in Buncombe court (Asheville) but on last June 24 the North Carolina state supreme court ordered the suspended sentence put into effect. Pelley also was indicted recently at Washington on a sedition charge.

A motion for a new trial will be filed within three days, Defense Attorney Floyd Christian said, and if it is denied the case will be appealed promptly to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago.

The spruce little man who once headed the Silver Shirts of America was convicted last night by a federal court jury which also convicted two business associates, Lawrence A. Brown and Miss Agnes Marian Henderson, on one count of conspiracy to commit sedition.

Possible sentences are 20 years, plus $10,000 fines, on each of the 11 counts.

Pelley was returned to the county jail after the verdict was read, being unable to post enough bond to cover the second sedition indictment in Washington.

To Probe Fire Insurance Firms

Washington, Aug. 6 — (AP)—The Justice Department announced today that a federal grand jury at Atlanta, Ga., would investigate complaints that stock fire insurance companies had suppressed competition and fixed rates and commissions in violation of the anti-trust law.

Subpoenas calling for submission of records and books by October 5 have been issued against 13 underwriting and insurance organizations with a membership of approximately 300 stock fire insurance companies.

The group includes: The National Board of Fire Underwriters, National Automobile Underwriters Association, Insurance Executives Association, Interstate Underwriters Board, Insurance Federation of America and Eastern Underwriters Association all of New York; board of five Underwriters of the Pacific and Pacific Coast Uniformity Conference, both of San Francisco; Western Insurance Bureau and Western Underwriters Association, both of Chicago; Southeastern Underwriters Association, Atlanta; Middle Department Rating Association, Philadelphia, and Stock Company Association, Washington, D. C.

Survivor Tells of Shipwreck

Standish, Mich., Aug. 6 — (AP)—Another dramatic chapter in the Great Lakes' latest story of shipwreck and drownings unfolded today after the rescue of a second survivor from the tragic Sunday fishing cruise of 13 persons on Saginaw Bay.

Coast guardsmen patrolling the bay for victims' bodies pulled Abraham La Bean, 32-year-old Bay City welder, from the water at 3:25 p. m. yesterday—a rescue that bordered on the miraculous, the guardsmen said, since he had been in the water 73 1-2 hours.

A life jacket so water-logged that it weighed approximately 50 pounds when La Bean was rescued had kept the bulky, six-footer afloat for three days and three nights from the time the fishing party's cruiser had struck a rocky reef and foundered.

Not long before, the body of La Bean's wife, Dorothy, 28, had been recovered. It was the ninth body to be found. The only other known survivor was 23-year-old Mrs. Dorothy Reppie, who had swum seven miles to shore. Her husband, Louis, drowned in an attempt to make safety with her.

MAJOR VICTORY
Cushing, Okla. — (AP)—R. R. Alexander's victory garden is living up to its name. One of his turnips measured 26 inches in circumference, weighed 10 1-2 pounds and had over two feet of top. He estimated there was enough "green" in the top to serve a family of 12.

Production in the United States between 1929 and 1941 showed a rise of 46 per cent in output per man hour.

Tennessee to Vote Today

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 6 — (AP)—A bitter, name-calling Democratic primary campaign comes to a climax today as Tennessee voters nominate a governor and a United States senator.

Dominant issues in the race have centered about Edward H. Crump, leader of the powerful Shelby county (Memphis) political organization, and the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Running for renomination to his third term as governor is Prentice Cooper, opposed by former Congressman J. Ridley Mitchell and J. Bailey Wray, Knoxville attorney. Senator Tom Stewart's race for another term pits him against Edward W. Carmack, Jr., Murfreesboro attorney, and Dr. John R. Neal, Knoxville law school teacher.

Nominees for ten congressional seats also are to be chosen but only two face opposition in the primary.

Nomination in all races is tantamount to election.

Labor Member to Determine Status

Little Rock, Aug. 6 — (AP)—W. J. (Bill) Smith, Texarkana attorney today arranged a conference with Governor Adkins to determine his status with the workmen's compensation while he is serving with the Army Air Forces.

Smith, 33, labor representative on the commission since it was established Dec. 5, 1940, announced he was surrendering the $5,000 a year job to become a second lieutenant in the air branch. He said he did not know whether he would have to resign or could obtain a leave of absence. His term does not expire until January 1947.

Pershing's Son Is Given Commission

Fort Belvoir, Va., Aug. — (AP)—Pvt. Warren Francis Pershing, son of Gen. John J. Pershing, was commissioned a second lieutenant at the engineer school here today.

Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, and other notables attended the ceremonies marking the commissioning of several hundred officer candidates but the 81-year-old General Pershing was unable to attend.

Mining Equipment to Be Saved From Drive

Washington, Aug. 6 — (AP)—Secretary of the Interior Harold I. Ickes today directed all field engineers of the Bureau of Mines to prevent the scrapping of usable second hand mining equipment in the scrap metal salvage drive.

Ickes said that valuable and irreplaceable mining machinery was being destroyed for scrap, along with kiln equipment, crushers, and other ore reduction and treatment machinery.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

"The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty urination with something burning sometimes shows there's something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Pills used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Let's Make It

A LANDSLIDE

FOR

JACK HOLT

YOUR NEXT U. S. SENATOR

ON AUGUST 11th

• Join the Swing to
A Senator Who Will Represent
ALL of the People—
NOT Just One Section or Group!

Compare the Records and Remember:

JACK HOLT

Has been Attorney for the People of Arkansas for the past six years. He has represented all of the people of the state. He advocated all-out preparedness long before Pearl Harbor. He is fully experienced in legislative procedure, having drafted and passed on much of this state's major legislation in recent years.

John McClellan

Has been the attorney for the big corporations for many years. He has represented only a small portion of the state and does not understand the problems of all of the people of the state. During his four years in Congress, he introduced only 32 bills — NOT ONE OF WHICH WAS DESIGNED TO PREPARE AMERICA FOR WAR.

THE

JOHN McCLELLAN

SHOWS HIS SPOTS

John McClellan, seeking election to the United States Senate on the merits of a sackful of high-sounding slogans, suddenly has deserted his self-styled role of the "Clean Campaigner." In a desperate and frantic effort to defeat Jack Holt, he has adopted the smear tactics which characterized other, and equally unsuccessful, candidates for this high office:

John McClellan has charged that each of the 54,000 people who voted for Jack Holt is part of a vicious political machine. He has charged that each is attempting to vote Arkansas into political enslavement and deprive the people of their right of franchise. Apparently ignoring the fact that Jack Holt's support has come from every walk of life in every part of Arkansas, John McClellan has charged that every man who votes against him is a political boss. This is the time-worn cry of every defeated politician.

WHO SHOULD KNOW MORE ABOUT BOSSES THAN JOHN McCLELLAN?

While Jack Holt has been representing the people of Arkansas — the people of ALL parts of Arkansas — John McClellan has been representing the big corporations . . . the oil companies, the railroads. To date, he has not replied to the charge of the "Fighting Congressman," now his political bedmate, that he is the representative of the power interests.

TELL THE PEOPLE OF ARKANSAS, MR. McCLELLAN, WHO YOUR BOSSES REALLY ARE

And don't say that the people are your bosses because the people of Arkansas wouldn't have a man as their representative who would smear the characters of 54,000 citizens for his own political gain. The people of Arkansas want and are going to have a United States Senator who will represent ALL of the people of the state—not just those who voted for him.

THE PEOPLE OF ARKANSAS DO NOT WANT AND WILL NOT HAVE A UNITED STATES SENATOR WHOSE HEART IS FULL OF MALICE

The people have seen the spots on the clean Campaigner. On August 11th they will give him the same answer they gave other smear campaigners on July 28th. They will make him the "cleaned Campaigner."

JACK HOLT BELIEVES:

Winning the war and winning the peace are the greatest problems confronting the American people today. There must be no duplication of the lack of foresight, lack of interest and neglect of duty which left America so sadly unprepared for war and which is to blame for our present unhappy position in the war.

Prior to the period of reconstruction following the war, sane and sound laws must be passed which will guarantee to the farmer, to the school teacher, to business, to labor and to every other man and woman a protection of their interests in the American way of life.

Full parity of price and full parity of income for all farmers and on the farm is a fair and a just principle. Farm problems should not be viewed through the idealistic eyes of the social dreamers. These problems have come about not by accident but as the result of laws passed in Congress. They can be solved only in the Congress and only by those who fully understand agriculture and have the interests of agriculture at heart.

No sacrifice will be too great for us to make for our boys when they return from this terrible war. Legislation must be passed which will provide a continuation of their pay following their discharge for a period long enough to permit them to rehabilitate themselves and again become useful citizens in the communities of their choice.

The fundamental American way of doing business must be preserved. This is the only way the enormous cost of the war can be paid. Policies of government which keep the people in a constant state of turmoil must be stabilized to end confusion and uncertainty so that all may know the problems lying ahead.

If the war is to be hurried to a successful ending, Congress must stop placing politics before national preparedness. Congress must place love of country above love of self.

Number 1 Dog Blood Donor

World Features
Baltimore, Wash. — A stray brindle and tan dog without a trace of pedigree has become the No. 1 canine blood donor of the U. S. Army at Fort Lewis.
Six months ago she turned up at the Army post and promptly was impounded. While her fate hung in the balance, an injured puppy in need of an immediate transfusion was brought to the Army veterinary station. No other dogs were available, so it fell to the stray to act as donor. The puppy lived and the newcomer stayed.
Today she is the top dog at the Army cantonment. She has been named "sergeant Mary" because the veterinary corps says she can take it like any tough top dog.
Her record to date is eight quarts of blood and officers credit her with saving the lives of at least 25 dogs on the post.

Sergeant Mary's blood cells now have acquired the additional attraction of serving as immunizing serum for their recipients. She has been immunized against distemper, rabies and various other dog diseases.
Sgt. Richard W. Harnden, top kick of the veterinary station and now Mary's master, claims that the dog likes the smell of ether and the operating room. "The only difficulty now is that she tries hard to be a lap dog and she's too big for that," he says.
U. S. OFFICERS' CLUB
Belfast — (P) — The Midland Station Hotel, blitzed last year and now renovated, houses a club for United States Army officers.
The Duke of Abercorn presided at the formal opening. On behalf of the United States forces General Russell P. Hattie, commanding officer, thanked various organizations which made the club possible and declared it "the climax of efforts of Ulster to make our forces feel at home."

Talent Gets Good Workout

By GEORGE TUCKER
New York — Howard Barlow's peculiar talent for remembering long lost faces got a good workout during last week's rehearsal of the Everybody's Music hour. The senior conductor for CBS glanced down at one of his trumpet players and yelled, "Okay, Huckleberry." The player grinned, and went right on playing.
It seems that 21 years ago a trumpet player called on Barlow and played a audition. The piece he played was "Huckleberry Finn." Barlow never forgot the man's face. Until the moment he glanced down and saw him in the brass section of the CBS Orchestra today hadn't crossed paths. Barlow didn't know the man's name, but he remembered the piece he had auditioned more than a decade ago.
BARLOW'S MEMORY is a score of comment. He reads a score through once, closes it and never looks at it again. From this one reading he is able to conduct an entire symphony. Toscanini does this, too. He always conducts from memory.
A third facet to Barlow's peculiar memory is that he never forgets an error that one of his musicians makes. If a fiddle player fluffs a note at a certain point in a certain composition, Barlow will flinch everytime they come to that point. He is on edge lest the player repeat the mistake. But they seldom do.
Barlow himself is tall, slim, and has an unusually high forehead—"A musician's forehead."
As a matter of fact, the forehead is greatly reminiscent of the late Houdini's. Barlow is an Ohioan 45, and is called the "Father of American Music." The reason for this is that he insists that at least one American composition be played on each concert he conducts.

Two Fires Wednesday Cause Little Damage

Two fires, a store house at the Cox-Cassidy Foundry and a grass fire on Park Drive, resulted in very little damage here yesterday, the Fire Department reported today.
A generator blew up at the foundry setting fire to a small store house which was quickly put out, the department reported.

Trustees Who Stops Break Gets Parole

Little Rock, Aug. 6 —(P)— Medford Waterson, one of eight trusty guards who ended last Saturday's attempted break from Tucker prison farm with a blaze of rifle fire that killed one convict and wounded two others, received a parole yesterday along with 38 other prisoners.

The parole was granted by the State Parole Board at its monthly meeting where Sept. Tom Cogbill, warden Lee Henslee and the trustees were congratulated by the board and Governor Adkins for averting the break. Adkins said he would personally commend each guard by letter.
Those receiving paroles, county, date of sentence, term and crime included:
Ned Dell, Columbia, April 21,

1941, two years, burglary and grand larceny; Pearl Duncan, Washington, July 9, 1941, three years grand larceny; Alton Hewitt, Jefferson, Oct. 25, 1941, two years, grand larceny; John E. Tunstall, Jefferson, July 31, 1939, seven years, burglary and grand larceny.
Experts estimate that nearly 500,000 new homes a year will have to be built in the United States after the war.

'B' Boys Join Armed Forces
By ROBBIN COONS
Hollywood — Glamour factory at war:
There were no headlines when Jack Lubell went into the Army. There was no bulletin when King Mojave entered the Navy, nor when Jimmy Horne and Larry Steers and many more said goodbye to Hollywood for the duration.
Jack and King, Jimmy and Larry weren't famous. They were just "B" members of the Screen Actors Guild, commonly called "extras." But they and others like them are already sorely missed in the picture industry.
Central Casting, the clearing house for extra talent, records that to date 2,500 men and women of its list of 6,000 have withdrawn from pictures either for military service or for war industries — 425 of them into the armed forces. And this leaves Central and the studios in one heck of a jam without, paradoxically, benefiting the several thousand extras who remain.
The motion picture extra is in a field where labor is at once scarce and abundant. For the few, because they are the types most frequently needed in pictures, there is sufficient work to give them a comfortable living — in rare cases as much as $4,000 a year. For the extras as a whole, the cold statistics show that in 1941 55 per cent of the women and 37 per cent of the men earned less than $300, — so much less in many instances as to fall below commonly accepted subsistence levels.
Those types most in demand are the youthful and dress extras. The percentage of extras who are photographically as well as physically "young" is small. The types of movies made in the past year or so, and increasingly this is true, have placed an accent on youth. As pictures more and more attempt to keep pace with current events — war themes — the accent on youth becomes stronger.
And here is where Central Casting runs squarely into competition with Uncle Sam's casting office. Uncle also likes 'em young and his bids get priority.
So the labor scarcity for this type of extra — young, goodlooking, good wardrobe, — will benefit the few of the type who remain. It will change nothing for the odd, distinctive types — the tenement mothers, the Spanish grandees, the plug-ugly pirates and other usable only rarely.
Central recently got a waiver from the Guild to register 50 new young men to fill its needs. Like the studios with their term contracts, Central signed up only boys with a fair chance of draft deferment. Typical problem: RKO needed 200 "soldiers" for "Sweet or Hot," and if Gentleman Jim at Warner Bros. didn't finish with its 200 young men that day RKO would be out of luck the next.
The war is hitting Central hard from another direction, too. Howard Philbrick, the manager, is losing his casting men — the ones who know the extra lists by heart — both to Uncle Sam and to better jobs in the studios.
But the departure of the dress extras is going to cause no panic in the second-hand clothes industry. The boys who make their living with their wardrobes, it appears,
